PEOPLE'S STORE.

AN ESPECIALLY FINE LOT OF REM-NANTS FOR TODAY.

Odde and Ends for Friday's Sale—
An Extensive Stock of Dress
Goods and Wash
Fabrics.

PEOPLE'S STORE.
FRIDAY, MARCH 14, 1890.

Today is our remnant day again, and the offering in that line are exceptionally attractive. Lots of our new spring stuffs are already cut down to small pieces and short ends, and make the sale today especially fine.

Our stock of new dress goods and domestic wash fabrics was more extensive and varied than now. Full lines of all grades are now opened and on sale. Yesterday we added several cases more to our already large stock of French finished satens, and now place before you over one thousand pieces of the prettiest designs and richest colorings in these goods, at 25¢ per yard, ever seen.

Imported goods are not any prettier and cost double the price. We were particularly fortunate in securing an importer's stock of fine embroideries in flouncing, half-finchings, panels, insertions, edgings, etc., in all grades.
They are now in stock, marked lower than we would ordinarily have to pay for them.

WINDOW DISPLAY.
Trousers, Chiffons, 50¢ a yard, the very newest designs and colors, and cheap at 15¢ a yard.

Beige Dress Goods, 50¢ a yard—the pret-

POLICE.

The Commission in Session Yesterday.

The Police Commissioners met in special session yesterday afternoon, with Commissioner Lewis in the chair, and Commissioners Collins, Knox and Dexter present, Chief Glass being also in attendance.

The demands of P. L. Budinger for $32 for the board of patrol horses was affirmed, and that of Meyburg Bros.
for $7.50 for supplies furnished the police station, was referred to the Chief for investigation.

The demand of J. C. McMenomy for $20 for plumbing at the police station some months ago, was referred to Commissioner Collins to find out the reason the bill has not been paid heretofore.

The demands of S. C. Jacobson, for repairing police stars, and Bertrand, for photographing prisoners, were approved.</

BLACKMAILER BOYCE

ON HIS TRIAL FOR EXTORTING MONEY.

Savage Tells a Straight Story as to How $50 Was Coked out of Him and the Attempt to Get More—The Defense Pillborsting.

The trial of H. H. Boyce of the Los Angeles Tribune, under indictment by the Grand Jury, charged with blackmailing Justice Theodore Savage, began yesterday morning before Judge Shaw, in Department No. 6 of the Superior Court. The case was well under way before adjournment for the day, and the direct and cross-examination of Justice Savage was finished. His history of the transaction was clearly and intelligently told, and if the corroborative evidence is as claimed by the prosecution, it will conclusively fix upon the defendant as a dirty and despicable crime as ever a criminal conceived. The efforts of the defense, developed by objections and cross-examination, were directed to attempts to get the indictment against the defendant, and not the Grand Jury, and that it is a conspiracy against Boyce. The tils between counsel were numerous and spicy, and furnished considerable entertainment for the spectators.

Mr. Boyce did not look entirely easy under the shower of unpleasant epithets used in connection with the case, such as "blackmailer," "extortionist," and the like, and during the testimony regarded the charges with a stony stare, while the color went to and fro in his meaty jaws.

His otherwise cold and fishy expression was quite in contrast with that of his florid and energetic counsel, W. F. Fitzgerald, Esq. The prosecution was represented by Deputy District Attorney Hardesty and C. C. Stephens, Esq., and the latter was kept busy exposing the adroit attempts of Mr. Fitzgerald to lug in immaterial matters.

The entire morning was consumed in getting a jury. The panel was called, and both departments, No. 5 and No. 6, and both sides exhausted nearly all their peremptory challenges. The questioning of jurors by the defense was largely directed to the amount of reading done by them about the case, and whether they had read about it in THE TIMES. They were asked whether or not they were acquainted with the proprietors of THE TIMES, and the questions tended to the absurd attempt of creating the impression that THE TIMES was interested in bringing about the indictment of the defendant.

The jurors generally answered that they had not formed or expressed any opinions about the case, although several announced that they had, and that it would require evidence to remove the opinion formed. The examination of the prosecution was brief, and directed to ascertaining whether the jurors had prejudices, for or against the defendant, and whether or not they had been spoken to about it, before being examined; also as to whether or not they are clients of defendant's counsel. The jury, as finally impaneled, is as follows: Henderson Chaney, G. Y. D. Brand, J. A. Fortman, John T. Fay, G. Duncan, J. A. Montgomery, L. D. Woodworth, A. J. Seale, C. C. Lamb, William Stahl, G. Ferguson and Charles E. Spencer.

When court reconvened, at 2 o'clock, the prosecution at once called Justice Savage to the stand. After the usual preliminary questions—in which he stated that he is 28 years old, was Justice of the Peace of Los Angeles township August 2d last; has a family, consisting of wife and child; and was acquainted with the defendant upon the date mentioned—the examination went directly to the crime, with which "Mr." Boyce is charged. He testified as follows:

Question: Did you meet the defendant in August last?

Answer: I did.

Q: Where were you living then?

A: I was living at Santa Monica with my family.

Q: Go on and state how and under what circumstances you met the defendant.

A: About 6 o'clock on the evening of August 2d, I was at my home in Santa Monica, when Harry Johnson called and had a conversation with me. He was a deputy constable of my court at that time.

Q: Do not state what he said to you, but what you said to him?

A: Mr. Johnson and I, after some time, went to a livery stable and procured a team.

Q: Would you have done so if you had not talked with him?

A: I would not, certainly, have done so.

Q: Where did you go?

A: We drove to Los Angeles and I went to the Tribune office at 11 o'clock. I called for Mr. Stevens, the city editor, and had a conversation with him. He directed me to Mr. Boyce's room.

Q: What was the conversation you had with Mr. Stevens in relation to?

A: Mr. Stevens: I object to that.

Q: Mr. Stevens: I propose to show that as a result of that conversation Mr. Savage went to see Mr. Boyce.

The Court allowed the question.

Q: What did you do in pursuance of that conversation?

A: I went into the editorial-room. Mr. Boyce was there. I think others were there at that time. If there were they stepped out. I told Mr. Boyce I had just had a conversation with Mr. Stevens and Mr. Johnson, and that I had heard it was intended to publish in the Tribune a story about myself, to the effect that I had visited a house of ill-fame and had contracted a disease as the result of the visit. I told him that I had spoken to Mr. Stevens about it and had asked him to refrain from publishing it. He said he was only a subordinate and had no control of the matter, but for me to see him (Boyce). Mr. Boyce then said that such a report had come into the office with very circumstantial details. I told him the statement was not true; that I was a man of family, a public official, of the same political party as himself. That, if published, it would disgrace me and my family, even if it had. I told him I thought all that would be necessary would be to go to him and simply speak to him. But he did not answer at first, but rested his head on his hand. He asked me first who my physician was? I told him Dr. Wise. He said the report had been brought to him by a lawyer, in whom he had confidence, and had been given in such detail that he believed it. He then asked me if I had enemies. I told him I supposed I had, but did not think any of them bitter enough to resort to such means to injure me. He said I had enemies, and that there were several who wanted this article published; that the lawyer had insisted on having it published; that they were willing to pay $250 for it. I told him that astonished and dismayed me. I told him if they were so determined to pay the money, they would find some sheet that would publish it, even if he did not. "No," he said, "I thought it such a serious matter. I made these people go away and put the statement in writing," and put the statement in writing, and intended to keep it. I said they could make another statement if they wanted to publish it elsewhere.

He thought a moment and said: "Yes, that is so. I am busy now; come back tomorrow and I will try to fix it up." I said: "In the meantime you will not publish it?" He said he would not.

Then I went away and came back the next day at 11 o'clock at the same place. The conversation was taken up about the same place we left off. He said the men were very anxious to publish the article.

He said the Times or Cactus would be willing to get it. "This lawyer," he said, "belongs to me. I have the whip hand of him. I can keep the article from being published." He said there were two courses open, either for him to wash his hands of the whole matter, or to use his influence to suppress it. Then he thought a little while and said he had supported me and thought that if he suppressed the article I ought to be grateful to him. I said I would certainly be so. Then he said the Tribune was in financial straits, and he thought if he suppressed the article I ought to pay him $250. I told him I was a poor man, but I would pay him $100, and I went out and got $50. I came back, and when I gave him the money he shook hands with me and asked me to pay the balance as soon as I could.

Q: When did you hear again from Mr. Boyce?

A: I don't know the exact date. I think about a week afterward. I received from that time till September 5th repeated demands for the money over the telephone and orally. On September 5th I wrote him a note in which I told him I had received a communication in writing. Where is that?

Q: Mr. Kelly has it.

A: Mr. Hardesty: Mr. Kelly says he cannot find it, but I will go and look for it.

Q: You talked to you through the telephone?

A: I recognized Mr. Boyce's voice at the other end of the telephone. He wanted the money.

Q: Mr. Fitzgerald: I object at this time to the investigation of the ground that a mere agreement to pay money is not extortion. My contention is that this inquiry must be limited to the $50.

Mr. Stephens: said that the matters laid down in the indictment are broad enough to cover the inquiry.

The Court: The only act charged is taking the $50; the other proof would be only to show the intent. The objection is overruled.

Mr. Hardesty returned with the document. It was submitted to the witness, who identified it as a note he received about September 5th, but it was not put in evidence at this time. It was a note asking for money.

Q: What brought it to you?

A: A young man named Watkins brought it to my courtroom while I was on the bench. I was trying a case at the time. The young man went away and came back at 4 o'clock by my instructions.

Q: What happened then?

A: Mr. Hardesty and I had a conversation with him.

Q: Do you know of your own knowledge what connection he had with the defendant?

A: I do not.

Q: What did you do?

A: I sent him back with a message to Mr. Boyce—written. Subsequent to that time I never received any written communication from Mr. Boyce.

Q: Did you ever send a letter to Mr. Boyce?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: On September 1st I sent a check and letter to Mr. Boyce. A demand had been made on me some little time before by a messenger purporting to come from Mr. Boyce. I wrote this letter and check (identifying them) and gave them to my clerk, instructing him to give them to Mr. Boyce. My clerk took a copy of both.

Q: Why did you pay that $50 and agree to pay $300 more to the defendant?

A: Objected to and objection sustained.

Q: Did you ever have any other business with the defendant?

A: None whatever. I never had any business with Mr. Boyce except to subscribe to the Tribune. I never paid to this time, was indebted to H. H. Boyce. He did not state the name of the lawyer who told the story about me, although he said he would.

The cross-examination was quite lengthy and was conducted by Mr. Fitzgerald with seeming vehemence.

Q: Did the defendant or anyone authorized by him induce you to go to his office?

A: Objected to as calling for a conclusion. The Court allowed the question.

A: Mr. Boyce did not. Nobody representing himself as acting for Mr. Boyce came to me.

Q: Then you went first of your own volition?

A: Yes, sir, certainly.

Q: Were you not looking out for publications of this kind at that time?

Mr. Stephens: Now, Your Honor, I certainly object to that.

Q: Mr. Fitzgerald: I want to show that at that time this witness was on the alert for publications of matters of this sort.

Mr. Stephens: The objection that it isn't cross-examination is sufficient to that. But if these charges had been published in dirty newspapers what would it matter? What defense is it if it be true that Mr. Savage was on the alert? What defense to Boyce upon the charge of having blackmailed Mr. Savage out of $50? If it be true, it only shows that Boyce knew he had the whip-handle over Mr. Savage. The only question is whether he extorted $50 from him. This isn't libel. Mr. Boyce can't justify. If Boyce made the threat, he don't care how Savage got there to his office. We are putting our case in the proper manner. We will show by O. A. Stevens and Harry Johnson why Mr. Savage went there. Wherein lies the relevancy of whether or not the ears of Mr. Savage were spread to every passing gale?

Mr. Fitzgerald: The purpose of the defense is to get before the jury the circumstances that led up to Mr. Savage's visits to Mr. Boyce's office. The Court: I don't care how Savage got there to his office. We are putting our case in the proper manner. We will show by O. A. Stevens and Harry Johnson why Mr. Savage went there. Wherein lies the relevancy of whether or not the ears of Mr. Savage were spread to every passing gale?

The Court: If the question had been limited to that, proper, but I will sustain the objection.

Q: Mr. Boyce spoke to you in a friendly manner, did he not?

A: The conversation was friendly and agreeably carried on.

Q: Did he at any time say to you he intended publishing that article?

A: I believe it was stated so at first.

Q: Didn't he say that the paper had never published such articles, and that he would not publish it?

A: Not as you state it. I think he did say the paper was not in the habit of publishing such articles.

Q: Didn't you state in front of the news store on First street to O. A. Stevens during the afternoon of that day, the second day after the first interview with Mr. Boyce, that you had paid Boyce $50; that it was all right; it was not extortion, and you had no recourse to get the money back?

A: No. And I wish to state what the conversation was. Mr. Stevens met me in that bookstore and asked me if I had given Boyce money. I told him I had, and he told me I was very foolish; that it was nothing but a blackmailing scheme, and that he had retired from the paper on that account.

Q: Did you say positively that you did not tell him it was not blackmail and not extortion?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Do you know W. L. Price?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Did you have a conversation with him on the 27th of February, at the corner of New High and Franklin streets?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Did you invite him to take a drink?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: Did you tell him you were a candidate for reelection?

Mr. Stephens: objected, because this is not a caucus, and the objection was sustained.

Q: Did you not say to him that if Gen. Boyce would not oppose you in the convention you would see that this case was dismissed; that you did not have anything to do with bringing the case before the Grand Jury; that your testimony was not sufficient to warrant an indictment?

Mr. Stephens: We object to that. It is a collateral matter, and even if it was all true, what has it got to do with Boyce extorting $50 from Mr. Savage? If the witness should say no, he could not be contradicted. It is only an attempt to break down the testimony of the witness by smirching his character.

The Court finally let the witness answer.

A: I will have to answer no. Some of the matters were spoken of, but as you word the conversation, it gives a false construction of the purpose of the conversation.

Q: Do you know W. T. Williams?

A: I do. I have had conversations with him.

Q: Did you have a conversation with him the 19th of February last, on Spring street, when you asked him to take a drink?

A: I do not remember. I have had a number of conversations with him.

Q: Did he not say to you, "Judge, you look as if you are troubled;" you replied, "I am troubled about that G-d-d case against Boyce;" he said, "I will make a fool of yourself there, and have injured yourself more than you have Boyce;" you said, "It can be dropped;" he said, "It can be dropped;" you said, "If Boyce will not go against me I will drop the G-d-d case, will you speak to Boyce about it?"

A: Parts of it never did occur. I think I did say I was worried and that it was about this case, and wished it had never been brought. I never said I would drop it.

Q: Have you ever received any pecuniary assistance from outside persons to employ outside counsel?

A: Objected to by the prosecution.

Mr. Fitzgerald: I wish to show this witness is a mere cat's-paw for others. That the witness was furnished by enemies of this defendant.

because the purpose is evidently to attempt to smirch this character of the witness before this jury.

Mr. Hardesty: Mr. Savage is not the prosecuting witness in this case. He is not a willing witness, and it is all that Mr. Fitzgerald says is true it does not discredit the witness. There can be no evidence brought that he is a defaulter.

The Court: I will allow the question.

A: Absolutely and unequivocally no. No threat was ever made to me. What has Detective Marsh been around you for?

Q: Did you employ Mr. Stephens to prosecute this case?

A: I did.

Q: For how much?

Mr. Stephens: I object, because I don't propose to have you fix your fee to Mr. Boyce by mine. [Laughter.]

A: One hundred dollars.

Q: Where did you get the money?

Q: During the conversation?

Mr. Boyce: August 2d did he make any threat that he would publish the article unless you paid him money?

A: I certainly so considered.

Q: I don't want what you considered.

A: Then I can only say what he said.

Q: Were you ever at any time a subscriber for a block of stock in the Tribune Company?

Q: Do you remember you were one of a number who were asked to subscribe to help it out of financial difficulties?

A: No, sir, because it never occurred to me.

Q: Did you not in May, 1889, subscribe for a block of stock to assist the paper in a financial strait?

Q: Objected to the question sustained.

O. A. STEVENS, SWORN:

I live in San Diego and am a newspaper man. I was acquainted with Gen. Boyce in August last. I was in his employment then as city editor of the Tribune. I left about September 1st.

Q: Did you at any time receive instructions from Boyce to investigate an report about Mr. Savage?

A: Yes, sir.

Q: When?

A: It was two or three months before Savage came to the office.

Q: What conversation did you have with Boyce concerning that report or charge?

A: Mr. Boyce asked me if I knew any stories about Savage. I told him yes. He said one had been brought in, alleging that the Judge had, through his association with prostitutes, become diseased, and was having trouble with his wife about it. I told him I could not investigate such a story. I can't say of my own knowledge that I knew whether there was anything in it. He said go ahead and see him. I did go and talk to Harry Johnson about it. Savage came to my office at night, in the early part of August.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

One at a Time.

[The following letter from a mechanic was intended for yesterday's issue, but is still timely.]

Los Angeles, March 12.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] I would like to call your attention to one point on the sewer question, and that is this: The people are using every means to induce the laboring people to vote for all the bonds, promising plenty of work and good times, but they fail to point out the fact that there will not be laborers enough here to carry on the sewer work, and then there will be an influx from other places, just as there was during the late boom, and in a year or two we will be worse off than we are now, the work will be all done and we will have a mass of poor people among us.

Now my advice to the laboring people would be this: Vote only for the interior system at present, and see how we get along; and then, when that is done, it is time enough to commence on one of the other systems, and by this way we can keep our own people employed, without importing help from other places. I am not interested only as a citizen, being a mechanic, but I think that we should all look to the welfare of our city, and not to the interest of real-estate sharks and boodle contractors. Yours truly,

A MECHANIC.

A HOUSEKEEPER'S HEAVEN.

The pleasant prediction is made that drudgery will be abolished from the household and the occupation of the domestic servant will be gone.

Valuable Advice for the Present Day.

Mrs. Helen E. Sterrett, in a recent number of the Forum, contributes an article entitled "Housekeeping in the Future." In it she tells how in a few years electricity will supply light for the home, the family cooking and washing will be done outside, and there will be so little work in the household that the occupation of the domestic servant will be gone.

But Mrs. Sterrett's article is simply a prediction, and has no more than a passing interest for the ladies who live in 1890. Their social and household cares are restraining their delicate, nervous system, and the result is terrible. Headaches, backaches, and womanly ills are growing alarmingly common. Many of them find that memory is failing; they are unable to recall the names of friends or tell whether they have performed some of their usual household duties.

Their nerves are in such a condition that very slight causes, or perhaps no cause at all, may irritate them. Life grows to be a burden. There is no need for despair, but there is great need of caution. Their nerves should be built up, life fortified, and brains restored with that remarkable preparation, Paine's Celery Compound. Instead of the depressed and languid feelings, after the Compound has been used, they will feel active, vigorous, and happy. Do not let health and happiness slip away. To those who are weak and failing, and desire health and happiness instead of illness and misery, we earnestly urge that they act upon this advice.

The boy burglars, Lewis and Madison, arrested some days ago for robbing Fay's grocery store, on Seventh street, were yesterday examined before Justice Austin and held to answer to the charge before the Superior Court.

Wednesday afternoon Victor Heights and the Red Diamonds played a match game, the Red Diamonds being the winners. The score stood 21 to 18. The Red Diamonds are a juvenile club, and will play any club of boys under 14 years of age.

Hon. William H. White, father of S. M. White of Los Angeles, is lying very ill at his home in Oakland. An honored citizen, useful, and full of years, his death would be sincerely deplored by the whole State.—(Santa Ana Blade.)

At the Illinois social this evening, in Illinois Hall, there will be a musical and literary programme, and also music by Prof. Elser's family orchestra, and a local comedy entitled "The Buried Boon Bonners," with Tom Barnes and Henry Harrison in leading parts.

Kiel, one of the San Pedro kidnapers, was examined before Justice Lockwood yesterday on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Owing to the fact that it was stipulated by counsel that certain evidence in the case before Justice Austin should be used in the examination, the hearing was continued until 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Charles Youngworth, an old saloon man, was thrown from his buggy at the corner of Broadway and Tenth streets last night about 11 o'clock and pretty badly bruised up. He was taken to the police station, where he was booked for medical treatment. Dr. Wing was called in, and diagnosed the case as a bad attack of alcoholism.

Coroner Meredith was yesterday called to Pomona by telephone to hold an inquest on the body of a man who, it was said, died without a physician being in attendance. Before the departure of the coroner, however, he was notified that his presence was unnecessary, a physician having given a certificate.

About noon yesterday a horse, attached to an express wagon, ran away on South Spring street, and, but for the prompt action of Officer Dugan, serious damage might have resulted. The officer, at no small personal danger to himself, managed to get into the wagon, and brought the horse to a stop, just as it was about to dash into Ebinger's bakery, at the corner of Third street. A lady narrowly escaped being run over, but jumped out of the way in time to escape injury.

Yesterday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock Officer Theo Roberts caught a Chinaman in the act of burgling the grocery store of Lambourne & Turner, at the corner of Aliso and Alameda streets. The heathen had effected an entrance through the rear of the store, and had filled a sack with various articles, which he was getting ready to make off with when he was nabbed by the officer. He was sent to the police station, where he gave the name of Ah Chung, and was locked up on a charge of burglary. His examination will be had today.

The free scapion entertainment given by Rev. A. Burrell on Wednesday evening to the boys at the W.C.T.U. reading-room, corner First and Geary streets, would have been valuable to a far more cultured audience. That it was entertaining was proved by the close attention of the twenty-five or thirty boys who heard it. His subject was "An Evening in Southern India," and talk and pictures together delightfully filled the assigned hour.

The Central W.C.T.U. hope to have Mr. Burrell give a similar lecture before long at Temperance Temple for the benefit of the reading-room.

He stole the Book.

A. F. Reynolds writes to THE TIMES as follows:

I write to correct a misstatement in regard to my having a man arrested for simply reading a book. It is ridiculous, and every one who knows me knows it to be so on the face of it. The facts are that some one had been pilfering the books, and I determined to catch the thief, and I have a witness to fix in my pocket case that I can see all that is going on behind me while at work, and I distinctly saw the man conceal a book under his coat and carry it away. The book was found on his person, and I had him arrested.

DISEASES OF THE HEAD,

Throat and Lungs. Fully treated by M. H. LUTON, WILLIAMS, M.D., M.C.P.S.O. by the compound Oxygene and other medicated inhalations.

Probably no system of practice ever employed has been so universally successful as that introduced by Dr. Williams for the cure of Catarrh, Throat Diseases, Bronchitis, Asthma and Consumption.

CATARRH

Catarrh is often regarded by the patient as a cold in the head, and he often expresses his astonishment at his remarkable tendency to contract fresh colds. Indeed, he declares that he is a cold-free man, and he is always exceedingly careful. It is also a matter of surprise to him that the cold always seems to settle in the head and throat.
